OVERVIEW OF SHANDONG

Shandong Province is also known as "Lu" due to being the seat of the Lu State in the Pre-Qin Period, and has its capital in Jinan. Nestling on the coast of eastern China, the lower reaches of the Yellow River, and the Bohai Economic Circle, it is the bridge connecting the vast inland of China with the vast Western Pacific Ocean. In the global landscape, it is separated from Japan and South Korea by sea, and is a hub of the New Eurasian Continental Bridge and an important area of the Belt and Road Initiative. It is home to 100.7021 million people, and has a total land area of 157,900 square kilometers and a coastline of 3,345 kilometers. There are 16 prefecture-level cities and 137 counties (cities, districts) under its jurisdiction.

Shandong, with a time-honored history and a splendid culture, is one of the important cradles of Chinese civilization and the origin of Confucianism. It has long been known as "Hometown of Confucius and Mencius, Land of Ceremony and Etiquette". Numerous philosophers, politicians, military strategists and scientists such as Confucius, Mencius, Sun Zi and Mo Tzu were born here.

Shandong, an economic powerhouse in eastern China, is a major production and export base of agricultural products in China. It also plays a big part in the industrial fields of energy and raw materials. Both traditional industries and emerging industries here have realized sound development.

Shandong embraces the world with a global vision. Friends from around the world are welcome to visit here.
